

Branson has finally found a way to form a domestic airline in the U.S. Please do not shortcut the process to review this proposed new airline. The industry is still losing billions every year and the last thing we need is another airline that would enter the mix. This is Richard Branson's way to finally form a foreign airline within the U.S. Can we really afford the beginning of loss of millions of domestic jobs in the airline industry the same way our domestic auto industry has lost? Please do not rush to judgement and let the system carefully and slowly determine if we should really allow foreign persons to form domestic airlines inside the U.S.
